

XM radio is an awesome medium.

I live in the Southwest where it doesn't take long to travel out of range of any local radio broadcasts.

XM allows my family and I to enjoy a variety of music no matter where we travel.

XM radio is a paid subscription service.

The service would not survive for long if there were not many people like me who pay for this service.

It is a service that is only provided to those who by paying the subscription costs.

I can appreciate the need of having up to data traffic and weather at my fingertips in times of bad weather on commutes to and from work.
